All Society Members Invited to Celebrate Another Successful Year

The RAHS will wrap up a busy and successful year with the annual meeting and picnic Wednesday evening, June 13 at the Rochester Community House on Ludlow. The event harks back to old time end of the school year picnics in the days of rural schools.

The picnic/potluck will begin at 6:00 p.m. and promises to be an evening of good food and fellowship. We never ask members to bring a specific type of dish to pass. The menu always works out and there is always more than enough delicious food for everyone to enjoy.

Please plan on attending even if you haven't been able to actively participate during the past year. The annual picnic is a great opportunity for all members to mingle and get to know one another while sharing a meal. It is a family event and kids are welcome.

This year's picnic committee persons are Liz Golding, Gail Kemler, Janet Potton and June Hopaluk. RAHS will provide chicken and non-alcoholic beverages. Please bring a dish to pass and your own place setting.

At general meetings, the Society provides entertaining programs and the annual picnic is no exception. Our Era Editor will entertain with stories (see page 2 for description).

After dinner we will elect officers and honor award winners, those hardworking members who will be recognized for exceptional contributions to RAHS over the past year. For more information please call Gail at 248-651-0907 or June at 248-652-9242.

Rochester Pet and Doll Parade, 1944 —

The DUR tracks have been removed from Main Street and the rail bed paved with brick. June of 1944 marked the 5th US War Bond Drive, a desperate time for the US.

Amid the war and worry, the community made a way for children to enjoy their summer (see Pgs. 4 and 7).

Bea Catherino presents: Graham Cemetery and the Adventures of Little Charlie Postal. Rochester Community House, (included in the annual RAHS Indoor Picnic)

Thirty years ago, reporter, teacher, furniture refinisher, and current RAHS Era Newsletter editor), was given (for safe-keeping), a tomb stone found under an apple tree in a country backyard. The person who found Charles Postal's tomb stone, never returned. It took ten years to find where Charlie belonged and whose little boy he really was. Then it took another twenty years to identify 42 of the 57 people who were removed from Graham Cemetery on Crooks Rd. from 1927 through 1929.

The story continues as a journey of discovery, through old records, journals, diaries, genealogies, interviews, and site visits as far away as the original National Cemetery in Washington, DC. Little Charlie Postal is back with relatives and neighbors now—some were Rochester's earliest settlers. Join the fun of this strange but true adventure.

Codes like this one will soon be popping up on historic buildings all over downtown Rochester. A smartphone user who sees one of these QR (Quick Response) codes on one of our buildings may scan the code and the phone will instantly display the building's history, along with vintage photos, from our new Oakland Regional Historic Sites (ORHS) database.

On April 19, we kicked off the QR code project with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at O'Connor's Public House, the very first downtown building to participate in the project. Dignitaries present at the event praised RAHS for initiating a program that will raise local history awareness, connect with a younger demographic, promote heritage tourism and downtown trade, and instill pride of place. A representative of County Executive L. Brooks Patterson also delivered a special citation honoring the project.

To use the QR codes, a smartphone user must first download a free QR Code Reader app. Once that is installed, the code can be scanned with the phone and the fun can begin! Those who do not use smartphones may still view all of the ORHS records by visiting oaklandregionalthistoricsites.org on any Internet-connected computer.

From the President Rod Wilson

What an exciting time to be a member of the Rochester-Avon Historical Society. There are so many projects and so many opportunities to get involved to help make our community a better place to live. Research committee, Oral History committee, Membership committee, Downtown Walking Tours, Greater Rochester Heritage Days, RAHS booth at Downtown Sidewalk Sales, Sons of the American Revolution Grave Rededication committee, Mount Avon Cemetery Tour, Hills Theatre project, developing products that can assist in fund raising, and the list goes on and on. We can only do all these things with your help. Thank you for your support in the past and we are looking forward to you helping in the future. If you have not taken the opportunity to get involved, now is a good time to be part of all the activity and join in on the fun. Everyone has a resource to contribute.

On April 21, 2012, we met as a group to discuss the future of our organization and what paths we might want to take to make RAHS even better. The plan, as it is developed, will be discussed at all Board meetings. These Board meetings are open to the entire membership. Our organization has grown, community needs change, people communicate differently today, and we are a different organization than we were 20 years ago. Your Board is working on taking RAHS to new heights. In the following months this information will be given out to the entire membership. Please help us move our organization forward so we will continue to grow and be strong in the future.

Elections 2012- - At our June 13th Annual Picnic/Meeting, we will hold elections for President, Vice President, Treasurer, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, and two Members-at-Large. These positions are for two-year terms. The appointed chairpersons will be discussed at a Board of Directors meeting. If you are interested in serving on the Board of Directors, please call me. An Elections/Nominating Committee is being formed to handle the elections, and I will put you in touch with them.

Rochester Avon Historical Society Calendars Coming!

Exciting news.....we will offer a full size 2013 wall calendar for sale to our members and the public. This new RAHS calendar will have pictures of "old Rochester" combined with multiple newer pictures. We are in the final stage of producing the calendar. It will be available this fall. Pet, Doll Parade to March on Wednesday

The "big day" for hundreds of Rochester kids and countless bewildered animals will arrive next Wednesday, June 23, when the fourth annual Lions Club Pet and Doll Parade swings into colorful march down Main Street.

The parade is set for 2 pm, but all entries should be at East Fifth Street just off Main by 1 pm, so the parade can be formed and judging done. All entry blanks must be in by Monday, June 21. The blanks are available at most local stores and at The Era Office, 115 East Fourth Street.

Entry blanks are important particularly because the winners of the big grand prizes will be chosen by drawing the winning blank from a box. Others may enter the day of the parade and compete only for items and small cash prizes. Judging of all entries in the parade will be 1 to 1:30 after the Parade has formed on Fifth Street, here the Grand Prizes will be given out and all other prizes will be given out at the Methodist Church on Walnut Street after the parade.

In addition to the big prizes, the parade committee, headed by general chairman, Morrell Clute, has arranged that every child participating will get some sort of prize. First, second and third class ribbons will be awarded for each class of animal and doll, as well as honorable mention ribbons. The committee will also give 50 half dollars to those taking first class, 50 quarters for second class winners, plus a dime for every child in the parade. There's no premium on age, either, with a cash prize going to the parade's youngest entry.

Even more than the prizes is in store for the boy or girl in the Lion's Club parade. A frog leap and hurdle race to be held after the parade will provide laughs for all and prizes to the lucky winner. Ice cream will be on the house for all children, with the final prize rally on Walnut Street following at 5 pm with a theater party at the Avon theater. Tickets for the show will be passed out after the prizes are awarded.

Variety is the spice of life, and if plans work out as expected, it will also be the spice of the parade. Prizes are available for all types of animals and dolls, according to Mr. Clute and the more the merrier. Whether its common or unusual, big or little, a pet or work animal or bike, scooter, or favorite doll—dress it up or fix it up and get in the parade. It could win a big prize.

Clute has assured parents that every effort will be made by the Lions to see that every child entering the parade has full protection against traffic hazards, especially along the line of march (down Main Street). After forming at East Fifth, the parade will go down Main Street to Second Street, then march over to Walnut to the front of St. Paul's Methodist Church.

Ed. Note:
The Pet and Doll Parade vanished into memory, and with it – a single day in June, in the lives of Rochester/Avon kids, in which every kid who participated in a parade received a prize--if only dime, an ice cream, and a memorable great day!
