

WILLIAM DEFOREST PRICE

William DeForest Price died at his home in Shelby, on the morning of April 13, in the 39th year of his age. He was born on the farm where he died, June 18, 1865. He was a man of energy and will, accomplishing whatever he undertook making a very successful farmer. He was a good neighbor and a benefit to all who lived around him, being of a kind and obliging disposition. All that could be done for him in his last illness by his loving wife and her devoted mother, relatives, neighbors and faithful attendants was done to restore him to health and to no avail. He was a person who appreciated kind acts done by friends his motto being 'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you'. His religious views were seldom expressed only as he expressed them in telling a dream to his wife a few weeks before his death, which told how much he thought of the hereafter and of meeting the dear brother in the world beyond. He leaves to buffet with the storms of life a faithful, loving wife, two bright boys, two devoted brothers, a kind father and mother who worshipped him. May Willie, a name he has born since infancy, rest in peace.

The funeral was largely attended from his late home at 1:30pm, April 17, Rev. Dr. Reiter officiating with interment in Rochester Cemetery.

The Rochester Era, Rochester, Michigan 21 April 1905